Save the Bees Take & Make

Pick up starts February 5

Did you know bees and other vital pollinators come out of hibernation as early as March? Many of these newly emerged bees have very little to eat due to the lack of blooms during the dawn of Spring, and will starve or freeze to death by April. You can help. Grab an early pollinators seed kit to plant this month. Plant and nurture it early, so that when the first bees wake from their winter sleep, your little flower garden is ready and awaiting their return. Let's help save the bees!

No preregistration required, while supplies last.

A library is more
